I grew up in a little town of province in the North of France. I benefited from a pleasant environment because I live near the countryside and the forest, but also not far from big cities. I have been living in the same house for 15 years.

My parents are from a working class background, they began their career as employees in a bank and in services. Now they have created their own company each. They are also athletes, they already ran many marathons, they each gave me the notion of pleasure obtained through effort. I also have a brother who is 20 years old, he studies in a business school, he wants to become a businessman.

I have the ambition to become a lawyer, certainly because I hate injustice, I like equality.

I am perceived as being autonomous and focused, my friends describe me as an honest person, if I have something to say to someone, I say it to him. In my family, we communicate a lot. I know that if I have a problem, they can help me.

I appreciate spending time with my family and my friends, but I also like staying alone to study or to listen to music.

It's important for me to feel good at home, unlike my brother (he can't stay at home).

To sum up, I love to be with my family and my friends, but I also like staying on my own.

In my free time, I like going outside with my friends, going to the cinema for example. When I don't have school, we organize parties with my friends, we like chatting and dancing.

I love animals, that's my passion, I have a cat at home and I love dogs too. I plan to become a volunteer in a kennel.

I like basketball, and I like going outside to run, I have already been practicing handball for 7 years, generally I love team sports.

A friend of mine has just returned from United States, she lived there for one year thanks to the AFS Organisation, she is completely changed by this journey, she is a new person, I would like to feel this change.

This stay abroad will give me the opportunity to discover a new culture that is yours. I will share with you the French culture too, that I consider important thanks to the social and cultural life my parents brought me up in (without forgetting the fabulous French culinary culture).

I have travelled a lot since birth, I really love that, I visited many countries such as Spain, the United States, Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Morocco... I really love to travel.

My friends are very important to me, I spend a lot of time with them. In my group of friends, I'm not the leader, but I am not a follower either, I am a person who shares his opinions and listens to the others' point of view, it may be an asset for my future career!

I hope this letter enabled you to get to know me better.

I am looking forward to meeting my future host family.
